Paris Styles

By MARY FENTRESS
United Press Staff Correspondent

PARIS, (U.P.)—Paris bootmakers have scored another success, this time in the form of "two-time" shoes which serve the dual purpose of being equally chic with afternoon or evening clothes. The colors are pastel shades or a natural tone to accompany flowered prints or plain crepes. They are made of kidskin or kid suede and are firm and substantial although delicate in color and form. The favored styles are Court slippers or sandals.

Mrs. Franklin Hutton, mother of the famous ex-Princess Barbara who is now the Countess von Reventlow, ordered "two-time" shoes from Madame Georgette in cream kidskin. The pumps have a scalloped edge, and in each scallop has been painted a tiny bunch of field flowers.

Lady Foley wore "two-time" shoes at several of the Jubilee garden parties. She selected the Jubilee colors, wearing white kidskin pumps with a transparent woven horse-hair inset on the vamp outlined with a light tracery of blue and red piping.

The wide leather belts in red, which have been so much featured at Worth's this year, have been given added importance by the addition to the ensemble of red sandals and handbags.

Perugia makes sandals in kid suede in pastel tones and edges the shoes with a fine piping of gold or silver kid. Heiester combines crepe-de-chine and kidskin for the "two-time" shoe. The dual purpose shoe is one of the most practical brought out in several seasons.

TODAY'S FASHION TIP

"Two-time" shoes which serve for either afternoon or evening wear are a practical innovation of the Parisian bootmakers.
